Speaking Of Sports

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (UP)—The record-breaking mile run of Jack

Lovelock of New Zealand, competing for Oxford University, was by far the outstanding achievement of the American track and field season. This brilliant invader crossed the Irish line in 1:47.6 at Princeton on July 15, and last month his record was formally approved by the A. A. U.

Second Best

Ranking just after Lovelock's performance was that of Bill Bonthron of Princeton, who finished second to the New Zealander. Bonthron's time in the mile also bettered the existing world mark for the distance, and earned him a native

American record of 1:48.7.

Other stand-out achievements all in new record figures:

Pole vault (hard runway) 14 ft.

1.3 ft. by Keith Brown of Yale

600 yards, 1:09.2, by Ben Eastman of Stanford University.

Running high jump, 6 ft. 8 1/2 in.

Approved By A. A. U.

Each of these new figures has been approved formally by the A.

One of the most noteworthy accomplishments of the season was that the United States team sent on a tour through Europe.

The athletes were Glenn Cunningham of Kansas; Ralph Metcalfe, of Mar-

Ivan Figue, Indiana; George Spitz,

VALIDITY OF NRA IS BEING PUT TO TEST

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 16.—UP—Decision of three federal judges on an East Texas Oil prohibition injunction which may test the validity of the NRA will be made after the judges study briefs to be submitted January 4.

The omnibus hearing of Amazon Oil corporation and 14 other companies closed here today after a stirring defense of state sovereignty and an attack on the NRA by Circuit Judge J. C. Hutcheson of New Orleans.

Determined that the court should not become a land-grab court and just say that everybody is in the parade and we might as well join it," the judge assailed the government as "going too far in an attempt to bring about perfection of an imperfect state."

Plaintiffs' attorneys charged that the state railroad commission in restriction of production in the east Texas field had taken orders from Secretary of Interior Ickes, acting as federal oil administrator.

Judge Hutcheson interrupted Charles Fahy, first assistant solicitor of the department of interior, in the closing arguments today to deliver his defense of state sovereignty. Fahy ventured a belief that if authority should clash in the field the federal force would be stronger.

"I don't think if the state railroad commission's order is invalid, that you have anything to do with running the field," the judge answered tersely. "That is unless you state's sovereignty is gone and Texas is no longer a state but just a division in the department of the interior."

The entire recovery program will collapse if the small oil producers were unregulated, Louis Tinn, special government counsel, declared.

In its eagerness to bring back prosperity the government has gone much further than ever before in invading states' rights," Judge Hutcheson continued in urging that the court refrain from merely a "band-aid" decision.

"I feel that we must decide this case on the cold law and not in any excitement or with any feeling of any kind," he said.

Previously Judge Hutcheson had questioned power of the court to test the strength of NRA. He indicated the case might stand or fall on whether the railroad commission's prohibition order is valid.

Appeal of the judges' decision, anticipated generally, would have to be made to the circuit court at New Orleans then to the United States Supreme Court.

Hearing the petitions with Judge Hutcheson were Judge Randolph Bryant of Tyler where the Amazon corporation filed its suit, and Judge T. M. Kemmerly of Houston.

Capone Will File Appeal Thru Lawyer

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 16.—UP—Attorneys for Al Capone, former Chicago chief, today appeared in Federal Court the decision denying a right to petition for habeas corpus. Capone is serving a sentence in the Federal penitentiary here on charges of evading the payment of income taxes.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood allowed the appeal to the Fifth Federal Circuit Court at New Orleans.

NEARLY 1000 feet of the work trestle of the Golden Gate bridge was swept away by hammering seas and winds which swept the San Francisco bay area recently with an estimated loss of $100,000. Above photo shows wreckage of the trestle from the San Francisco shore with Marin pier in the background.

"click down" on the rebellion automobile manufacture. Quiescent Senator Roy Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board, is apparently known to feel that Ford has been evaluating the spirit of the actual letter of Secretary of Labor Spring, John and Roosevelt had repeated consequences went over a wide range of subjects, but Ford was never once mentioned.

Last week there appeared at the Labor Board a delegation of four strike leaders from the Ford plant in Chester, Pa. They told a pathetic story.

The strike was called several months ago on a demand for union recognition and better working conditions. Practically all of the 3000 workers then had joined the union. Today, as the result of the Labor Board's intervention, the union has practically disintegrated.

For two days the delegation conferred with Labor Board officials, including Wagner, and members of its legal division. The word went out that at last the board had obtained conclusive evidence on which it could act with vigor, that within a few days a momentous decision would be announced.

The day following, just before the ruling was to have been issued, Senator Wagner conferred with the President. They remained closeted for several hours. Upon his return, Wagner declared he had nothing to say about Ford, emphatically denied that any action had been contemplated.

HUNGRY DIPLOMATS
The exit of the leading lights of the Diplomatic Corps immediately after being received at the White House reception the other night has set a lot of people talking. No sooner had Sir Ron and Landay, Ambassadors of Germany and Austria and Marquis of Turkey, taken hands with the President than they put on their hats and walked out.

Final diplomatic protocol, however, is not being observed at the White House. The diplomats have to arrive at 5:30 in order to make a line. Any of them have not eaten.

"In the old days," remarked one Ambassador who had served here many years ago as an attaché, "President Taft used to give a delicious creamed oysters and magnificence of champagne. Mr. Coolidge reduced this to ice water."

"President Roosevelt has reinstated the habit of eating again. It is true, but when I was ushered into the dining room for diplomats after shaking hands with the President, and saw four cakes chasing themselves around the plate, I thought it would be best to go home."

MEERRY GO ROUND
When Ruby Ladd, Governor of Kentucky, made Presidential Secretary Marvin McIntyre a Colonel on his staff, "Mac" was proud of the title that he had the commission framed, hung in his pleasant White House office. There it attracted much attention and pride. "Mac" stood it for a time, but finally, after reluctantly, gave up, removed the picture from the wall, took it home.

Some months ago political circles were startled by the announcement that three prominent leaders of Congress, all of whom had served during years of their prohibition stand, had organized the National Retail Beverage Association. The trio was Assembled to the outposts collector of the San Diego-Imperial district, the plan was to what many officials regard as potentially the hottest smuggling area in the country.

Custom officials face a unique problem here. It has pointed out with several hundred miles of coastline and border to watch, adjacent to the newly-declared free port of Lower California.

A collection of import duties at the port of Ensenada and contiguous territory, it was explained, was officially ordered to enable the saloons and casinos at Agua Caliente, Tijuana, Mexico and other border towns to compete with liquor prices in the United States, but officials were quick to realize that cheap Mexican liquor will provide smugglers with a golden opportunity.

Use of the air fleet was considered absolutely necessary to the efficient patrol of the territory.

Manned by coast guardsmen, the planes will be used only for scouting purposes, according to W. B. George, customs collector for the area. Radio communication between pilots and coast guard cutters will enable the latter to concentrate on pursuit instead of wasting time in scouting.

The announcement followed a conference between George and Admiral W. T. Barrant, commandant of the 11th naval district, and Capt. M. S. Hay, coast guard commandant at San Pedro.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

By MRS. CARL W. LONGMIRE AS TOLD BY THE PRESS

At least a half of "Miss" ingre-henades during the first six months of 1933 were due, directly or indirectly, to beverage alcohol, according to the findings of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, as stated by R. N. Whitfield, director, and reported by the press.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING HELD ILLEGAL

Even though liquor advertisements carry notices that they are not to be construed as advertising matter in localities where such would be illegal, this statement does not nullify their illegality according to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, as quoted by the Washington D. C. Evening Star. Rover has made the announcement that he will be forced to institute prosecution if such advertising continues.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE CARRIES LIQUOR WARNINGS

The official football schedule for the 1933 season at the Jamestown (New York) high school carries on 15th page a statement, by the late Dr. David H. Jordan, of "Science Outlook," Beverage Alcohol, and the appropriate caution: "DON'T BE MISLED BY BEER contains ALCOHOL in sufficient quantity to attack the nerves and brain. It is intoxicating."

3 IN 1000 GERMAN DRUNKARDS

Three of each one thousand Germans are habitual drunkards, the German Municipal Congress has reported. A statistical inquiry conducted by it in seventy-five German cities with an aggregate population of 19,000,000 disclosed the fact that nearly 50,000 persons had undergone cures for alcoholism.

DRIVERS AT BELIEVE ON INCREASE

An announcement has been issued by the officials of the department of hospital, in New York City, according to the New York Herald Tribune of November 23, that there is not and never has been a "mail reading" welcome at the door of Bellevue Hospital's alcoholism ward, and that motorists who are neither sick, injured nor delirious will not be admitted.

"In the last two months," said James H. Fay, acting commissioner of hospitals, "the number applying for admission has increased by 50 per cent. . . . Drunkenness is a public nuisance and we're simply asking the police to enforce the city ordinance."

JUDGE RULES THAT ONE DRINK INTOXICATES

Judge John W. Pendleton, of the St. Paul, Minn., municipal court, has ruled that one drink is sufficient to make an automobile driver drunk. Recently, says the Associated Press, a man was brought before him charged with driving while intoxicated, and his attorneys admitted that their client had had two bottles of beer, but contended that did not put him under the influence of liquor. The judge declared, however, that it was hard enough to drive even though one's head was clear, and that "one drink is enough to make a man silly."

IS YOUR "BEER PARLOR" A SANITARY?

"Investigation shows," said Dr. L. C. Geisler, health director of San Francisco, as quoted by the press, that a majority of the beer parlors are not washing beer glasses, in hot water or chlorinated water, which is one of our strictest rules. A drive to make the city's beer parlors sanitary was promised by the "powers that be." In the old days, these places, memorably extended back that far will recall not only actual places of sale but entire surroundings, that were distinctly anything but sanitary. Unfortunately, even cleansing the glasses in lye will not wash out the poisonous effects of the alcohol that goes into them and which makes men indifferent to sanitation and the welfare of others.

STILL AFTER BOOTLEGGERS

Walter A. V. Dalrymple, formerly director of the prohibition bureau, is now special assistant to the attorney general with a task of hunting bootleggers. Radio bootleggers, however, "bootleg" radio stations are said to be numerous in certain parts of the country.

The prohibitory liquor law has been cast out at least practically, so, but no vote can cast the innate evil out of liquor.

ON TICK

AN ENTRY IN A LEDGER MADE WHEN SOMETHING WAS BOUGHT ON CREDIT WAS, ONCE CALLED A "TICK" (SHORT FOR "TICKET") BECAUSE TICKETS WERE OFTEN GIVEN AS A PLEDGE THAT HOW THE PHRASE "ON TICK" CAME TO MEAN "ON CREDIT."

Air Transport Profits to Be Scrutinized

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—UP—Revelation of private profit in the creation of a government subsidized air transport network in this country today was expected to lead to another Senate investigation of Wall Street's foremost investment bankers.

Chairman Black of the Senate committee which has been investigating ocean mail subsidies told the United Press today he expected to reach the air mail phase of his inquiry some time next month.

More than 30 committee investigators already are examining records of the various air transport holding companies which control scheduled commercial flying in the United States. One individual's paper profit of $12,000,000 from an original investment of $500 already has been discovered by committee investigators.

Although such a return is not unheard of, the investigators believe they will be able to show numerous instances of swollen returns from corporations which have drawn $12,000,000 in treasury subsidies in the past ten years. Congress appropriated $10,000,000 for air mail subsidies in the fiscal year which began July 1, 1933.

By FRANK BRADY

1933 by United Picture Syndicate, Inc.

David Carlyle, young scientist planning a dangerous rescue expedition to the jungles of South America to seek his former chief, missing a year, meets Madi Wisner, beautiful Hungarian girl. To save her from deportation because she has overstayed her leave in America, he offers to marry her and so make her an American citizen. Though their marriage is merely a matter of form, they continue to see each other and one evening, when Madi impulsively kisses Carlyle, he finds himself deeply stirred.

CHAPTER VIII

WHEN Carlyle awoke the next morning, the memory of Madi's kiss still lingered. He was disturbed that it should have affected him so deeply. His first impulsive decision was that it might be better not to see her again—not to run the risk of any emotional complications.

But this, he realized after a little thought, was absurd. He was making too much of the fact that a pretty girl had kissed him and that he rather wished she would do it again. She herself would be greatly amused if he should discover that he had taken her kiss, a little tribute to his thoughtfulness in giving her the necklace, as of any consequence.

Besides, Madi was the only girl he knew in New York. He liked being with her. For the short while between the present and his sailing day, he might as well enjoy such pleasure as their friendship might afford.

SO IT was that, during the days that followed, he saw her as often as freedom from the work of preparation for his expedition permitted. Madi's manner upon these several occasions confirmed him in his wisdom in keeping up their companionship. She was friendly, but quite impersonal.

He became a little afraid, as time passed, that he might be imposing upon her. He asked to see her often, and never did she refuse him. He noticed now and again that she would lapse into silences, from which she would emerge with a little start and a smile not quite spontaneous. He found her, too, upon more than one occasion, regarding him covertly. He spoke of what was in his mind.

"You know I like to see you," he said. "But you mustn't let that interfere with what you might want to do yourself."

She looked at him intently. "Why do you say that?" she asked. "I don't know," said Carlyle. "It just happened to occur to me."

"I see you," said Madi, "because I like to be with you."

But he was not convinced. He began to feel strained in her presence. Yet when he was not with her, he missed her.

THEN, one evening, in her apartment, his disquiet became unusually pronounced. They had sat for a long while without speaking. Madi was gazing thoughtfully at a flower in the

Charges are Moderate

It is well to remember that a beautiful mortuary does not mean high prices, as this firm proves. With all the refinements and comforts to be found here, charges are never higher than the smallest incomes can easily afford. By including everything in one plainly marked price, we have made it possible for every family to make an appropriate selection without financial hardship.

WEST SIDE COUPLE IS QUIETLY WED

Miss Irma Candelo and Secondo Amante, well known West Side residents, were married last night at an Oakland church.

Following the ceremony, the couple came to Richmond and a reception was held at a West Side hall. The affair was attended by hundreds of friends and relatives of the couple.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Amante received their education at the Martinez schools, but in recent years have been living at the west side. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Candelo, 17 Delfino street.

Amante is a partner in the Torino Bakery and resides at 223 Bishop avenue.

WCTU WILL HAVE MEET ON MONDAY

The W. C. T. U. Prayer Band will meet Monday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, with Mrs. Olive Craig leading the devotional. Mrs. Hannah Bottom will preside.

The meeting was changed, due to the fact that the regular meeting date falls on Christmas.

LOCAL CLUB WILL ENJOY YULE PARTY

A Christmas party will be enjoyed Monday afternoon when members of the Richmond Club hold its meeting at the clubhouse.

Mrs. C. L. Baughman will be in charge of the affair, which will include Christmas songs and stories. Tea will be served at the conclusion of the affair.

LOCAL CHURCH SCHOOL WILL GIVE PROGRAM

A Christmas program will be given today at 9:30 A. M. by the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church.

The program will be as follows: Hymn, "Joy to the World."

Prayer, P. F. Brown, Scripture, P. F. Brown, Primary, Song, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

At the conclusion of the program, white gifts will be presented for local relief. These gifts may consist of food stuffs, clothing or money and will be distributed by the board of deacons.

Benediction, Rev. A. Alden Pratt.

LOCAL GIRL PAID HONOR AT BIRTHDAY

Miss Dorothy Bray was the most popular of the birthday party given recently at her home on Roosevelt avenue. Mrs. Ralph O. Bray assisted by Mrs. Harshfield and Mrs. Carlisle had charge of the affair.

In addition to a number of gifts for Miss Bray, there was a surprise for each guest. Those present were Mrs. L. C. Carlisle and daughters, Irene and Esther of Mountain View, Mrs. Ellsworth Harshfield, Misses Frances and Vera Kammerer, Bernice G. Riccio, Edith Hoshorn, Hilda and Lily Pines.

Your Good HEALTH

By CLAUD N. CHESMAN, M.D.

Explaining the Causes of Anaemia and How it Affects Us

ANYTHING which interferes with the regular flow of the blood or breaks down its carrying capacity must necessarily cause trouble with the various organs and tissues. The blood is liable to become infected and to carry the infection through the body. Any infection can become diseased from the blood, also any disease of the organs may cause changes in the blood stream. Anaemia always follows when there is any reduction in the red corpuscles of the blood or of the hemoglobin, or when the red corpuscles are unable to hold the hemoglobin in solution.

WE HAVE always named anaemia as either primary or secondary. Primary, when we referred to a case where we could discover no known cause. This type is known as pernicious anaemia, because it persists in spite of anything we do and we cannot find the definite cause. It is a defective formation of blood or the lack of red corpuscles thrown into the circulation by the bone marrow, which is our blood making machine. This marrow may seem to be functioning normally and still its products be deficient.

THE secondary anaemias are due to loss of blood, which may be from rapid bleeding or slow loss over days and weeks; or an increased destruction of blood, due to some disease condition in other organs or the inability of the system to absorb the waste products of our food. This means a loss of hemoglobin and consequently lack of oxygen, which the hemoglobin carries through the system. In the manufacture of the red corpuscles by the bone marrow anything that interferes with the process or the delivery of these corpuscles into the blood causes anaemia.

PERNICIOUS anaemia is a serious progressive disease, whose cause is unknown, and whose effects are serious in the blood, liver, and bone marrow. It seldom occurs in childhood or after the age of 60. Many changes take place in the system as it progresses. One of the most constant signs is lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The condition develops slowly and often unnoticed.

THE patient may not know that anything is wrong. He slowly becomes languid and weak, his skin takes on a lemon yellow color, lips are pale and the whites of the eyes are a bluish white. There will probably be sick stomach and vomiting. The tongue gets sore and the patient is likely to have some numbness or tingling of the hands and feet. He may have some fever and will lose weight. He gradually becomes more yellow and has less strength with shortness of breath on exertion, palpitation of the heart, and swelling of the feet. At any time the symptoms are soft and general improvement take place for a while and we think he is well, but the trouble recurs and slowly, but surely gets worse.

THERE is pulsation in the arteries of the neck and the heart beats rapidly. All the functions of the body deteriorate, kidneys, stomach, liver, and all organs become inactive. The loss of weight continues with a consequent loss of strength and ambition. The stomach contains no acid and consequently the digestion is poor and the appetite poorer. While the loss of weight is quite marked the edema of inaction may keep the tissues full and the loss is not evident.

EXCEPT for his color, the patient may look to be in good flesh. There are many cases still going about actively which are due to accounts before long if he continues to live under the present strain. Nature gets balky sometimes if deprived too long of normal support.

White Bathrooms.

Householders who have gazed enviously upon their neighbors' green or orchid bathroom and viewed with chagrin their own white tile, can now take heart. For the latest advice is to the effect that the vogue of gay color in the bathroom walls is on the wane, and there is a definite swing back to the chaste white of bygone days.

That is not to say, however, that the all-white bathroom is to be in fashion again. Color will still be introduced, but it will not be structural.

BASIC BEAUTY DEPENDS UPON A CLEAR SKIN

By JACQUELINE HUNT

DO YOU often become discouraged and wonder why you should be after you have planned an intensive beauty campaign and a glance into your mirror reveals literally dozens of beauty flaws? Perhaps there is a fault, a blemish, a nose that is a little too large for real beauty or you have a sagging chin.

You do not know if you should start on the chin and put it in its place and then concentrate on the nose and finally do what you can to improve the skin or whether you should begin the skin treatment first.

Fortunately most beauty treatments can be carried on simultaneously and even if you attack one problem at a time the others will receive some measure of benefit. If there is ever any question about where to start, however, let me remind you that a good skin is an excellent foundation for real beauty.

A fine, smooth skin will give character and loveliness to the plainest face and will make the least attractively shaped nose and the offending chin less noticeable. After you have acquired a good skin you can resort to tricks that will give you the impression that your other features are perfectly lovely—while you take the steps to make them truly so. But first you must keep your skin clear and free from blemishes.

Only the most careful cleansing with soap and water every day or several times a day if necessary will do that. Follow the cleansing regularly with a tonic or with a solution of Epsom salts (or oily skin) to keep the pores clear and fine. If you use the Epsom salts solution to clear the skin of blackheads or oiliness, rinse it away with cold water before you apply your night cream.

Give your nose just a tiny measure of extra attention. If the skin is dry, apply a small amount of cream, using vibrating motions of the thumb and index finger, massaging from the tip toward the root of your nose. This treatment is gently stimulating to the circulation and will help prevent the congestion that sometimes causes the nose to become red and swollen looking.

Now for water is excellent for line and wrinkles and will help put the sagging chin in its place. Ice water can be used safely on any skin since it is non-drying and will tighten the muscles. Wipe any excess softening cream off your face and you are ready for the ice-water treatment. Dip several large squares of cotton in ice water. Have a slit in one of them and place that piece around your mouth. Lean back in a comfortable chair and place another piece of cotton across your forehead, one around your throat and another with holes in it across your eyes and nose.

Now take a piece of gauze, put it under your chin and bring it up to the top of your head and tie the ends firmly. Rub over the gauze over the throat area with a lump of ice. Then relax until the mask feels warm. This treatment may be taken before you retire at night or just before you apply your make-up to go out. It leaves the skin firm and glowing and youthful.

Be extra careful in applying the cosmetics over and around your nose. Unless your skin is very oily, use an oily foundation cream to prevent the drying and redening effect of wind and changes of temperature. If your skin is very oily use witch hazel or a powder lotion.

In any case have your skin perfectly clean and damp with cold water when you apply your foundation. Spread it evenly over the skin with the fingertips and when the moisture has evaporated or been blotted up with tissue, blend the rouge on your cheeks and apply your powder. More hints for that nose and offending chin tomorrow!

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "If guests are dining at a servantless home, may the hostess excuse herself and go into the kitchen to do the dishes? Should she allow her guests to help?"—K. D.

ANSWER: If the guests are well known and some one among them suggests that they all pitch in and get the dishes out of the way, it is all right to let them help. But if the guests are not close friends or if they don't seem predisposed to help when it would be quite correct to let them, the hostess has no alternative. She should shut the dining room door, or clear the table to shift the kitchen door and come out and join her guests without delay.

HOLIDAY CANDY IS ESSENTIAL

By JUDITH WILSON

MAKING the Christmas sweetmeats is almost as much fun as eating them when the holidays finally arrive. Since there are so many nice things that can be done with Christmas candies, let me advise you to make them early before the final rush of shopping, baking and wrapping Christmas packages. If kept in a cold place, and packed in wax paper lined tin cans, they are not harmed and are of improved by "ripening" a week or two before Christmas.

Christmas Candies. The fondant candy preparations are most suitable for Christmas candies. They are easy to prepare and they may be put to an almost endless number of uses. Fruit juices, coloring, chopped nuts, coconut, chopped candied fruits, etc., flavoring and chocolate will give you any number of differently flavored candies from the same basic recipe.

An Easy Recipe. If you have ever tried making fondant and failed, you probably will not believe that there is such a thing as a recipe that can't fail, but here it is. Combine three cups sugar, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon cream, three-fourths tablespoon vinegar and one-half tablespoon salt and then add one cup of boiling water. Mix thoroughly. Cook until the syrup forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water. During the cooking, wipe the sides of the saucepan with a piece of wet cloth wrapped around a fork to remove the sugar crystals.

Remove from the fire and pour onto an ungreased plate. When cool, beat until the mixture can be gathered into a soft ball. Knead until smooth and creamy. You can use this candy "dough" immediately or you can put it in a covered dish and keep for several days. If it is a little sticky from standing, add confectioners' sugar and knead thoroughly. If it is too hard, add a small amount of cream.

Popcorn Fudge. Fudge is always popular for the sweetmeat dish or for Christmas packages. Few things taste so good as chocolate made into candy so here is a recipe for chocolate-marshmallow fudge. Put four cups of sugar and one cup of cream into a deep kettle. Add four squares of chocolate and one-eighth teaspoon of salt and stir together. Cook until the mixture forms a soft ball when a little is dropped into cold water. Then add two tablespoons of butter. Cool the fudge to lukewarm, add two teaspoons of vanilla and beat until thick. Have one-fourth pound of marshmallows cut in two. Pour half of the fudge into a greased pan, cover with marshmallows, then pour in the rest of the fudge. When cool, cut into squares. If you wish nut meats may be used instead of marshmallows.

Neapolitan Blocks. Neapolitan blocks are easy to make from the fondant. Divide the candy into three portions.

New York—Now is the time to choose what the smart young thing's home here and there for the week-end are wearing. It's a hard year if ever there was one, and no girl with a well-balanced wardrobe is without either a tweed topcoat or suit. She also numbers something knitted among her furs or coats, and is sure to have acquired a fur cape or neckpiece to top all these fashion "musts."

The Popular Tweeds. We do not need the sponsorship of the haute couture to make it continue to wear tweeds. It is a hard year if ever there was one, and no girl with a well-balanced wardrobe is without either a tweed topcoat or suit. She also numbers something knitted among her furs or coats, and is sure to have acquired a fur cape or neckpiece to top all these fashion "musts."

For Trimmings. The flattery of fur is too well known to need discussion here. Since fur bands are favored, then why not add a bit of fur, in one form or another, to your "knitted" evening gown. Women are all royalists at heart and take to the purple and to ermine robes with much enthusiasm. This season they may add a diamond which is 1933 for fur, and be as utterly a true place.

The point to remember about fur is not to overdo it, and not to use anything but the genuine for the trimming highlights. One is wise enough to admit the humble quality of a coat affair, only when they are used either for parts or for trim. For evening and party occasions, the really calling for fur, one should not risk appearing in costume like the most fashionable fur.

The cookie jar can be filled with the children's favorite animals, flowers or folk-like characters. If the mother takes the trouble to cut the patterns out of cardboard. This can be done fairly accurately by tracing the outlines first. Place the pattern on filled cookie dough and use a sharp knife to cut around the edge.

Do you know that kale should be cooked in a large amount of water? Swiss chard takes almost no water, and parsnips need just enough water to cover.

A portable air-conditioning device recently brought out filters, purifies, circulates and filters the air, and also deodorizes it. It is a great deal of money, but its electricity supply is derived from a wall outlet. It is no larger than a modern sized flower pot and is moderately priced.

California's Tactless Governor . . . Britain's War Secretary

FIVE times mayor of San Francisco, as a noted city official, he has been known for his tactless remarks. He is the Governor of California, and he is the man who has been known for his tactless remarks. He is the Governor of California, and he is the man who has been known for his tactless remarks.

Most folks seem to admit that Governor Ralph's statement, "A lesson to the nation in its treatment of kidnappers," was tactless and unbecoming. It was the Governor of California, and he is the man who has been known for his tactless remarks.

There are many sides to this bluff and hearty Californian. He is possessed of strange strengths and weaknesses. His spectacular career started amid the ruins of the San Francisco earthquake. On that terrible April morning in 1906, James Ralph, Jr., was a young, successful business man of San Francisco's Mission district. While houses toppled and flames licked a city to ashes, young Ralph led a relief drive.

While the doomed city still burned, he added a horse, riding friends around him and rode into the end of the devastation, making a survey of the needs of the suffering. It was he who added terrified refugees to relief stations, arranging for food, shelter and clothing. He it was, also, who within a day had the machinery of reconstruction functioning.

The new city rose, and Ralph, as Mayor, with it. The new City Hall went up, and the auditorium and the civic center; the Twin Peaks and Stockton St. tunnels were begun; the great Hetch Hetchy water project was started; the Panama-Pacific Exposition was a crowning glory.

Ralph, the Governor, walked the streets of the faithful, there were murmurs; these swelled into open protest; the climax was a legislative investigation of his administration.

The people who had fought for the people against the utilities, it appeared, had become militant against great corporations.

Now, at 64, the center of a storm, he is fighting back, but he feels he cannot help but feel that his career is over. He has never felt when he was in the State who had fought for the people against the utilities, it appeared, had become militant against great corporations.

GREAT BRITAIN'S Secretary of War is the Right Honorable Sir Douglas Haig, recently honored with the first Barony of Hailsham. Although 61 years old, Haig is a comparative newcomer to politics, having first been elected to Parliament in 1922. As a young man he spent some time in the West Indies, and later abandoned a business career for the practice of law. In 1922, when he became a member of the House of Commons, he was elected to the House of Commons.

Prior to becoming Lord Chancellor, Lord Haig was Attorney General for Great Britain and his first official position was Attorney General to the Prince of Wales. For this particular position the duties were high, the pay was high, but the uniform superb. But for his present post, Lord Haig is well-fitted.

During the South African war he attempted to enlist but was turned down because of his poor eyesight. This, however, did not daunt him. He had observed that the visual examination consisted in standing in the window of the recruiting office and reading a military poster across the road. He carefully memorized this poster and went back to try again. In the meantime, much to his sorrow, the powers that were, had changed the sign, and he was turned down, a second time.

Later, through political influence, he managed to get himself into the ranks, and served with distinction in the Boer campaign. He later rose to be captain in the County of London Volunteer Regiment.

Lord Haig has a link with the United States. His first wife, who died in 1925, leaving him two sons, was a daughter of Judge Trimble Brown, of Nashville, Tennessee; granddaughter of a former Governor of that state and American Ambassador to Russia.

from newspaper editors and others in the areas which would be directly affected by the plan, has been based on arguments that the state already has an over supply of agricultural products; that it does not need an additional power facility now; that a debt of $170,000,000 is entirely too great to saddle on any state project at this time; that there is no assurance of government aid which would be necessary to finance the work.

Proponents insist the project would be of great aid to the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, in particular and the entire state generally; that it would provide employment for many men and give the state the benefit of most of the $100,000,000 which would be necessary to complete the plan.

Mrs. Parks Is Called After Long Illness

Mrs. Julian E. Parks, pioneer Richmond resident, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Gibbs in Alameda early yesterday morning.

She had been ill for the past several years following a fall in which she suffered a fractured hip.

Deceased was 83 years of age and was a native of England. She had lived in Richmond for the past 32 years.

Mrs. Parks first resided in Point Richmond where she and her husband operated a hotel.

She was a member of the Episcopal church and of the Eastern Star and was active in both organizations.

Surviving relatives include two daughters, Mrs. Gibbs of Alameda and Mrs. Ella Rose Hunt of Richmond; three sons, William Parks of Richmond, J. L. Parks of Berkeley and Thomas Parks of Los Angeles.

They have started, Corbett and Stewart said in a joint statement after their conference. "Where said have not been stated they will get underway at once. The speakers which does not comply with the state law is doomed."

Clarifying the policies of the state board of equalization, Stewart announced that purchases of liquor are not necessary for arrests. He said the mere presence of a bar over which liquor is sold is sufficient.

Fines resulting from arrests and convictions within cities will go to the municipalities. Convictions in territory outside city limits will benefit county treasuries, Stewart said.

The Corbett-Stewart feud was "all a misunderstanding," Stewart said in referring to the Corbett attitude on speakers' raids in the San Francisco bay region because he had not received complete instructions as to the board's policy.

all busy handling the crowd which filled the street. Before the show was opened and aimed every exercise made.

Two thousand boxes of candy were in waiting, but so large was the crowd that a few of the older boys and girls went without in order to provide candy for the little ones. Matilda Meyer, owner of the lot, with song and dance, by boy and girl artists, combined in a scintillating display which brought enormous applause. M. Emma Meyer presided at the piano.

At the conclusion of the program the "Jolly Bells" from the Richmond union high school, Melville Garmon, general Pearson, Owen Bonhoe, Jack Lee and Al their friends, contributed with song and music on the violin, guitar and built-in piano and planned the capture of Santa Claus. Santa himself popped to the stage.

Bob Sharp, manager of the theater and Al Furrer, chairman of the merchants' Christmas committee, were both highly pleased with the show.

The program was made more enjoyable by the installation of a public address system in the theater by George Burton of Carl Alexander's radio shop.

25,000 Miles Are Covered By Lindberghs

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 16.—UP.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh came home today from an unprecedented aerial tour around the Atlantic ocean, and even before their fast plane touched the water, engaged in an aerial "duel" with another craft attempting to take photographs of their landing.

Flying homeward to spend Christmas with their young son, John, the Lindberghs landed at 1:21 P. M., EST, after a flight of six hours and 48 minutes over the 330 mile route from San Pedro de Macoris, Dominican republic.

Since July 9, when they left New York, they had crossed the North Atlantic and South Atlantic oceans, visited the British Isles, Europe, Africa, the Azores Islands, South America, the West Indies and touched in all 21 nations, on a flight of about 25,000 miles.

Thousands of spectators cheered their arrival at the Pan American Airways seadrome.

Enthusiastic crowds received them in every country and officials welcomed them. They visited Canada, Greenland, Iceland, Denmark, Finland, Russia, Estonia, Sweden, Norway, England, France, Spain, Portugal, Azores, Spanish Rio Oro, Cape Verde Island, British Gambia, Brazil, Trinidad, Puerto Rico, and San Domingo.

an "infatuation." Another coast guard officer, Florence, was classified as "one love." Leone, according to the diary, was "infatuated only on a temporary basis."

While police were running the diary and love letters, Avenue Howard, 31, of Ingleide, created a sensation when she topped a man on a suburban street and by her fiery cry she shot the dentist. The man called Pasadena police, who questioned Miss Howard and announced later that she was not the murderer only in a technical sense.

Meanwhile, a coroner's jury, returned an open verdict in the case.

Two attractive women were spectators and five police officers were called as witnesses.

Each officer was asked: "Do you know why Dr. Siever was slain?"

"No," Each Officer said.

Police declared that Dr. Siever's entire life seemed shrouded in mystery. He was accustomed to take long walks alone at night on suburban Pasadena streets.

Edward Brody, an attorney and long-time friend of the slain man said he knew that the dentist's true name was Leopold Siever and that he was a native of Liean, Russia. Of the doctor's personal habits, he knew very little, Brody said.

American Navy Is Far Below Allocated List

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—UP.—The American navy will be considerably below the allotted vessel limit by December 31, 1936 unless additional appropriations are made. Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chief of the naval bureau of construction, said in his annual report to Secretary of the Navy Swanson today.

Rear Admiral Land pointed out that the 1916 and 1929 appropriations for building programs have been spent and that the $238,000,000 authorized to construct 22 new warships under the national industrial recovery act has been allocated. The combined total, he asserted, is insufficient to give the United States a full treaty strength navy, which Secretary Swanson advocated.

The report covered the 1933 fiscal year, ending June 30. It showed 17 vessels in addition to the 32 ships authorized through NRA funds were under construction at that time.
